

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The Education for Justice (E4J) initiative will hold a High-Level Conference at the Vienna International Centre (Vienna, Austria) from 7 to 9 October 2019 and is currently accepting submissions under the Call for Proposals "Educating for the Rule of Law – Inspire. Change. Together".

As you know, E4J is an innovative and comprehensive educational initiative, which aims at building the capacity of educators to equip the next generation with a better understanding and an ability to address the issues that can undermine the rule of law. The initiative strives to achieve this through the creation and dissemination of educational activities and materials designed for primary, secondary and tertiary levels. These resources are developed in close collaboration with organizations such as UNESCO and in consultation with academia, educators and students themselves. This High-Level Conference will provide an opportunity to showcase many of these materials and discuss their practical application in thematic workshops. For more information on the High-Level Conference, please visit the WEBSITE: <https://www.unodc.org/e4j/en/about-e4j/HLC-Oct-2019/index.html>

In advance of the High-level Conference, we launched a Call for Proposals. This call is addressed to children and youth and offers an excellent opportunity to share their experiences, hopes and ideas about the linkages between education and the rule of law. We would kindly ask you to reach out to you students to make them aware of this call.

We welcome new and innovative ideas and encourage the use of different media. Successful submissions will demonstrate how children and youth can be an agent of change to strengthen and promote the rule of law, to spearhead this change and to inspire others in their communities. There will be a selected number of entries that will be showcased to the international audience attending the High-Level Conference in October. The winners' work will also be featured on UNODC social media channels. For more information on the Call for Proposals, please see the attached flyer or visit the website.
